about

I'm a junior developer with wide experience in frontend developing, intermediate knowledge in backend, and background in many of the creative fields, such as creative coding, photography, immersive installations and much more.

The combination of developing personal projects with professional experience has given many useful tools and values such as teamwork, organisation, optimization and and effective problem-solving skills.

I am looking forward to be part of a team and take part in large scale projects, where I can learn from teammates and contribute with my personal knowledge.
